

Darwinism in the Kitchen.

I was taken off my bonnet One afternoon, at three,
When a blunderbuss upon it, As proved to be a dose.

Then I takes it to the grate, Between the bars to stick it;
But I hadn't long to wait Ere it changed into a cricket.

Says I, "Curetic my senses Is a-gettin' in a fog."
So to drown it I commences, When it halts to a frog.

Here my heart began to thump,
And no wonder I felt funky;
For the frog, with one big jump, Leap'd hisself into a monkey.

Then I open'd wide my eyes, His features for to scan,
And observed, with great surprise,
That the monkey was a man.

But he vanished from my sight,
But I sunk upon the floor, Just as Missus, with a light, Come inside the kitchen door.

Then beginning to abuse me, She says, "Sarah, you've been drinkin'!" I says, "No, mum, you'll excuse me, But I've merely been a-thinkin'."

"But, as sure as I am a sinner, That party, what you see A-gettin' out o' winder, Have developed from a deer!"

The Original "Arkansas Traveler."

We make no apology for publishing this old, old story—"tis true that it was written long ago, but it really never gets old in one sense of the word. We have had many a hearty laugh over it, and in our readers will carefully study it they will find much in it to interest them.

The scene is that of a dilapidated log cabin in Arkansas. Its dramatic personage is a trapper seated upon an inven-tered tub, playing the first part of a familiar air upon an old violin, and his wife and children. A stranger enters and the following colloquy takes place:

Stranger—"How do you do sir? Are you well?"

Trapper—"Stranger, kin you call a man who eats three square meals a day, drinks hearty, and sleep sound, well?" (Fiddles.)

S.—"I think I could. How long have you been living here?"

T.—"D'y'ye see that mountain thar?"

S.—"Well."

T.—"That worl'yar when I come hyar." (Fiddles.)

S.—"Thank you for the information."

T.—"You're welcome."

S.—"Can I stay here to night?"

T.—"Well, you can't stay h'yar."

S.—"How long will it take to get to the next tavern?"

T.—"Well, you'll not get there at all if you stand thar foolin' with me all night." (Fiddles.)

S.—"How far do you call it to the next tavern?"

T.—"I reckon it's upward's o'some distance."

S.—"Do you keep any spirits in this house?"

T.—"Guess thar's plenty down in the grave yard." (Fiddles.)

S.—"How do you cross the river ahead?"

T.—"The ducks swim across." (Fiddles.)

S.—"How far is it to the forks of the road?"

T.—"The road ain't forked yet in these diggins." (Fiddles.)

S.—"Where does this road go to?"

T.—"Well it ain't moved a step since I've been h'yar."

S.—"Why don't you repair the roof of your house? It must leak."

S.—"Cos it's been raining like all creation for three weeks." (Fiddles.)

S.—"Why don't you mend it when it's not raining?"

T.—"Cos, then it don't leak." (Fiddles.)

S.—"Why don't you play the second part of that tune?"

T.—"Cos, I don't know it. Kin you?"

S.—"I can."

T.—"You kin? Look h'yar stranger, any man who can play the second part of that tune can go right into Congress onto it."

S.—"Give me the fiddle." (Taking the fiddle and plays entire tune.)

T.—"Yelling with joy." "Thats it by golly. Do it again stranger, Yahoo!" (shaking hands.) "H'yar make you self at home. You can stay a week, live and die here if it's agreeable. Here, Sal, bring out that jug, and go dig some sassafras root and make the stranger a

Fever and Ague, from which mankind suffer over a large part of the globe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sun is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and excreting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid, and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to cast it out. The blood leaves the surface, and rushes to the central organs with congestive violence. This is the chill. But in this effort it fails. Then the Fever follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that other great excretory—the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless effort another day. These are the fits or paroxysms of Fever and Ague.

Such constitutional disorder will of course undermine the health if it is not removed.
We have labored to find, and have found, an antidote.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it should, so it does cure this afflictive disorder with perfect certainty. And it does more, or rather does what is of more service to those subject to this infection. If taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to the disease.
Consequently it not only cures, but protects from, the great variety of affections which are induced by this malignant influence, such as Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb, or Masked Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitations, Painful Affections of the Spleen, Hysterics, Colic, Paralysis, and Prolapsus of the Uterus, and Stomach and Bowels, all of which arise from the cause, will be found to assume more or less the intermittent type. This "AGUE CURE" removes the cause of these derangements, and cures the disease.

This it accomplishes by stimulating the excreto-ries to expel the virus from the system; and these organs by degrees become habituated to do this their office of their own accord. Hence arises what we term acclimation. Time may accomplish the same end, but often life is not long enough, or is sacrificed in the attempt, while this "AGUE CURE" does it at once, and with safety. We have great reason to believe this is a surer as well as safer remedy for the whole class of diseases which are caused by the miasmatic infection, than any other which has been discovered; and it has still another important advantage to the public, which is, that it is cheap as well as good.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to recite the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. It has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do the most effectual cure of these diseases.

Great numbers of Clergymen, Physicians, Statesmen, and eminent personages, have lent their names to certify the unparalleled usefulness of these remedies, but our space here will not permit the insertion of them. The Agents below named furnish gratis our AMERICAN ALMANAC in which they are given; with also full descriptions of the above complaints, and the treatment that should be followed for their cure.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations they make more profit on.
Demand Ayer's, and take no others. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.
